Book Discussion on Bryan Stevenson's Just Mercy Concludes with Call for Action

A geographically diverse group of members and friends from Peaks Presbytery spent four Mondays in June engaged with each other and the book Just Mercy by Bryan Stevenson. The discussion was led by members of the Racial Equity Subcommittee of the Justice and Mercy Commission.

The powerful book served as a catalyst for far-ranging discussions of injustice, racial profiling, privilege, and the power of mercy as it works in and through people and the church. Although the book group has ended, participants wish to continue the conversations and more importantly to be engaged sojourners in an active mercy ministry. If you would like to be on an email list to share opportunities and/or stories of mercy in your own lives, please send your contact information to Subcommittee member Terri Cornwell \(terrilcornwell@aol.com\).

Stevenson writes movingly of lives changed, including his own, because people make promises to work for justice through mercy. Come join others as we make our pilgrimage toward a more just and mercy-filled world.
